

DALE GETS 10 YEARS FOR TAX EVASION

About Town

And Country
By TIMOTHEUS T.

LIFE IN BRUSHY: The other day we had mama roosters. Today we have mother kittens who go out at night and roam with papa. I received a letter from Edith Small, who is Mrs. John C. Small of Brushy township, and she tells about her cats and kittens.

Says Mrs. Small: "We have three mother cats, each with kittens of various ages. The mother of the youngest kittens (four of them which were born June 5) was trying to carry, by the nape of the neck as cats carry their young, one of the third-grown kittens to her nest of young one cool, rainy day last week.

"(I assumed she wanted to go for a stroll and needed a baby sitter to look after the young ones and to keep them from crying).

"However, she failed in her efforts to carry the kitten up the three-foot elevation where she kept her tiny baby kittens, so she gave up the attempt and chose a smaller kitten belonging to the third mother cat. It being lighter, she carried it up to her litter and placed it with her young, which have not yet opened their eyes.

"She apparently was able to fool her babies because she jumped down and was on her way, with the baby sitter left with the tiny kittens."

FACTORY: The Vienna Times reports that Ted Helbig of Sublette, Ill., who owns and operates a cheese factory in the northern part of the state, was in Vienna last week looking for a location for a cheese factory.

The paper says that contacts were made with Mr. Helbig several weeks ago by the Vienna Businessmen's association, who found a suitable building for the operation of the factory.

Mr. Helbig stated that whether or not he locates in Vienna hinges on the amount of whole milk available for his operations.

The editor of the Hardin County Independent, Harry Porter, and Mrs. Porter are vacationing in Florida and Harry writes back to his paper:

"For benefit of my skeptical friends, I am having a bass—an 11 1/2 pound one—mounted and shipped COD to the shop. It's a beauty. The fish created some excitement even in these parts where the big ones are caught."

Harry never did say that he was the one who caught it.

Annual Meeting
By Angus Breeders

The Saline County Aberdeen Angus Breeder association held its annual meeting last Friday evening at the Odd Fellows building in Galatia where those in attendance were served a dinner by members of the Rebekah lodge.

L. B. Kimmel gave a brief report of the calf sale to be held at the Franklin county sale barn next fall and plans were made for the Field Day to be held at the Tomlinson farm at West Frankfort on July 17.

The guest speaker of the evening was Bob Webb of the Dixon Springs experiment station, who spoke on "Feeding Beef Cattle."

The following officers were elected to serve for the coming year: Eugene Reynolds, president; Noel Bond, vice president, and C. B. Pulliam, secretary.

The purpose of the association is to promote and to improve the breeding of beef cattle in this vicinity.

Sergeant Killed
When He Stops to Aid Airman He Hit

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—An Air Force sergeant was fatally injured when he stepped out of his car on the highway to aid a man he hit.

M.Sgt. William E. Meservey, 36, of the 3324th student squadron at Scott Air Force Base was killed on Illinois Route 161 two miles east of Belleville, by a car driven by Airman L.C. Irvin Hammen, also of the Scott base.

Meservey's car had just struck another Scott airman, Noah B. Deloney, 19, of the 3319th student squadron.

Deloney's car had run out of gas and he was flagging traffic when he was hit. Deloney was treated at the Scott hospital for minor cuts.

Meservey's parents live at Highland Park, Ill., and his wife is a resident of Colorado Springs, Colo.

House Votes
Civil Service
Pay Increase

Measure Expected
To Go to Conferees
After Senate Action

By United Press

The House today voted a 7.5 per cent pay raise for the government's 1,073,262 white collar civil service workers.

The measure goes to the Senate, which has approved a 10 per cent increase. The Senate is expected to send it to a joint House-Senate conference committee to work out a compromise. It is expected they will agree on a boost of around 8 per cent—the same increase Congress recently voted for postal workers.

The House vote was 370-3. The three voting no were Reps. John Taber (R-N.Y.), Charles W. Furse (R-Ill.) and Noah M. Mason (R-Ill.).

The House bill came to the floor under a procedure permitting no amendments and requiring a two-thirds vote for passage. As drafted by the Post Office and Civil Service committee it would add 326 million dollars to the government's annual payroll.

The 7.5 per cent increase would be retroactive to March 1 and would affect workers in all three branches of the federal government.

Other congressional news:

Military: Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services committee introduced a compromise bill to carry out President Eisenhower's compulsory military reserve program. The Georgia Democrat offered the new legislation in response to Mr. Eisenhower's plea last week to enact a new reserve plan at this session of Congress. The bill abandons the controversial universal military training features of an earlier proposal and is designed to avoid another fight over racial segregation in the National Guard—the issue on which the earlier measure foundered.

Civil Defense: Civil Defense Director Val Peterson told Congress that the civil defense test last week showed the nation is not now prepared to meet an H-bomb attack. But he said the exercise had one real benefit—it would "force people to sit down and look the problem squarely in the eye." He made the statement before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee.

Military Appropriations: Mr. Eisenhower's plan to cut military manpower was expected to hurdle Democratic opposition in the Senate on a vote for $31,863,321,000 in defense appropriations.

Carmi Man Heads
Illinois VFW

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Roy K. Lechner, a 42-year-old bank cashier from Carmi, was elected commander of the Illinois Veterans of Foreign Wars Sunday.

Lechner moved up in regular order from his senior vice-commander post as a reported move to jump John Englander of Chicago into the top position never materialized at the VFW's four-day encampment.

Instead, Englander advanced to the senior vice-commander post and Dr. Bernard Bolotoff of Rockford won a close fight against Harold Keeling of Bensenville for vice-commander.

Springfield was named as the site of next year's encampment.

Also elected to VFW posts were Russell B. Caloun, Belleville, judge advocate; William Bollig, Joliet, quartermaster; Dr. Walter Prussait, Chicago, surgeon; and the Rev. O. K. Shaffer, Danville, chaplain.

Union, Goodrich
Rubber Company
Sign 5-Year Pact

CHICAGO (AP)—The CIO United Rubber Workers, a five-year employee benefit agreement with B. F. Goodrich Co. under their belt, set their sights today on U. S. Rubber Co. and a possible guaranteed annual wage demand.

A nationwide strike scheduled for midnight was averted at the last minute Sunday night when Goodrich and union officials agreed on a new plan covering pensions, health insurance and severance pay.

The Goodrich settlement gave the rubber workers agreements with three of the rubber industry's "Big Four," since agreements have already been reached with the Firestone and Goodyear rubber companies.

Negotiations with U. S. Rubber will get underway Tuesday in New York, with a GAW demand possibly on the agenda.

Air Force Adopts
Summer Uniform with
Optional Shorts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force announced today it has adopted a new summer uniform with optional short trousers.

The new "silver-tan" summer uniform will replace khaki which has been standard since 1947 when the independent Air Force was established.

Wearing the new outfit will not be mandatory until July 1, 1959, so that present supplies of khaki may be worn out.

The new uniform was under study for many months. It consists of a long-sleeve bush jacket, both long and short trousers, a short sleeve shirt and knee-length stockings. It generally resembles summer uniforms of British commonwealth countries.

Rival Bills by
Stratton, Powell
Before House

Tax Increases Big
Issue as Legislature
Nears Session End

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Tax increases to meet urgent revenue needs of schools, cities and welfare institutions were the big issue in the next-to-final week of the Legislature today.

The tax plans agreed on Gov. William G. Stratton and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, and a rival plan offered by Rep. Paul Powell (D-Vienna), were before the House.

Bills to provide more than 20 million dollars in state aid to schools were expected to remain stalled in the Senate until the House agrees on a revenue program to supply the money.

Other legislative battles in the remaining seven or eight working days are forecast over the recently investigated Toll Roads Commission, and a proposed revision of the judicial article of the constitution.

A proposed revision of the constitution's revenue article is expected to have an easier time.

Powell Bill Ready

The Stratton-Daley revenue program calls for a 1/2 cent increase in the state sales tax, a matching 2 1/2 per cent "use" tax on out-of-state purchases, a 1/2 cent city sales tax without referendum and a five per cent city utility receipts tax.

This tax program has been passed by the Senate already.

The rival Powell program would increase the state sales tax a full cent, with half the increase going to schools and the other half being returned to cities on the basis of population.

Powell's program, which has the support of downstate cities and most tax and business lobbyists who are resigned to a tax increase of some sort, is ready for a vote in the House. It would then go to the Senate.

The House Friday passed the bills for 201 million dollars in state school aid. The new formula would guarantee public grade and high schools at least $200 per pupil per year from local taxes and state aid.

The school appropriation is close to 60 million dollars higher than in 1953-55 when the equalization formula was $172 instead of $200 per pupil.

House Sponsor Charles W. Clabaugh (R-Champaign) said, however, that if increased state taxes are not provided, the equalization figure would have to be cut to about $137. He said this would cut off aid to 273 grade, 19 high school and 83 union school districts.

These districts would include such large communities as Chicago, Rockford, Peoria, Bloomington and Quincy, he said, because these schools would bring in more than $137 per pupil from local sources alone.

Fires On Autos When Lights Not Dimmed

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Police held a Denver, Colo., man today for firing on at least 10 passing automobiles on the National Pike apparently because the drivers did not dim their lights. One man was wounded and three others hurt.

Under arrest were William Jackson, 59, the alleged gunman, and a companion, Samuel P. Johnson, 35, Houston, Tex. State police said Jackson told them he opened fire on the automobiles because "he was mad at the way other people were driving."

State Troopers John Kahle and Forest Buchanan said the straight, four-lane divided highway was clear of traffic at the time. They said it was likely Thunder fell asleep at the wheel.

She was a member of the Presbyterian church in Harrisburg. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the chapel of the Harrisburg funeral home.

Diplomatic Sources Say Peron
May Topple in Wake of Revolt

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—Officers who fled Argentina following last week's revolution said today that the fight against the government of President Juan D. Peron is continuing. Diplomatic sources here said Peron may be toppled from power in the wake of the naval revolt.

Diplomatic observers here said the evidence available indicates Gen. Franklin Lucero as chief of the "forces of repression" either has or shortly may seize the reins of power in his campaign to restore order.

The refugee revolutionary leaders issued a communique today expressing confidence in the triumph of their uprising, and said "our comrades of the Argentine navy, air force and army continue fighting for our common ideals."

But the fight now, it was believed, has passed from the stage of bullets, clubs and the arena of the street and has become a power struggle behind the scenes. Peron, it was believed here, may be eased out by Lucero, as chief of the "forces of repression," in order to win support of all branches of the Argentine armed services.

A communique was issued in Buenos Aires today claiming that naval and all other armed services were at their assigned bases and "loyal to the government of President Juan D. Peron."

United Press Vice President for Latin America Thomas R. Curran reported by cable that the Argentine capital had assumed at least the surface appearance of calm and normalcy. There was, he said, no evidence in the plaza de mayo and other centers of the city of the rule of bayonet, which had been reported by sources outside Argentina.

Diplomatic quarters here said they believed navy chiefs aboard two cruisers which bombed government buildings Thursday may be negotiating with Lucero to prevent possible new clashes and that Peron was a hurdle to pacification of the country.

They also noted that Lucero heads all army, navy, air forces, frontier police, naval police and federal and state police troops and that his warning that he would smash any attempt to disturb the peace of the country was strongly worded.

11 Accidental
Deaths in State

By United Press

Highway accidents took one of the smallest tolls in recent months in Illinois last weekend.

A survey showed nine traffic deaths from Friday night to midnight Sunday, well below the normal toll.

There were two drownings to give the state an accidental death total of 11 for the weekend.

Both drownings occurred when fishermen fell out of their boats. Victims were James Stallworth, about 35, Chicago, in the Rock river near Dixon Sunday, and Dale Garlitz, 39, Springfield, in Lake Springfield Saturday night.

Peace Speech by Eisenhower to
Open UN Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—President Eisenhower, here for an important peace speech before a ceremonial meeting of the United Nations, today found time to confer with key California Republican money-raisers.

The President had a breakfast conference with the heads of the San Francisco County Republican organization, then spent the rest of the morning in his St. Francis hotel suite greeting old friends, including James L. Murphy, head of the 1952 Citizens for Eisenhower.

The President was scheduled to address an Opera House meeting celebrating the 10th anniversary of the U. N. charter at 4 p. m. CST. Mr. Eisenhower will fly back to Washington tonight, arriving back in the nation's capital in time for a morning conference, Tuesday, with his Republican legislative leaders.

Following his internationally broadcast speech from the Opera House, the President planned to go to the adjacent Veterans Memorial Building where he will hold a reception for foreign ministers and chiefs of the delegations for the week-long meeting.

There were 35 foreign ministers present for the conference, including V. M. Molotov of the Soviet Union. The reception this afternoon will be Mr. Eisenhower's only contact with the foreign ministers, according to White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

The President's address was expected to contain a new blueprint for peace.

The President was expected to set his sights on his meeting with the chiefs of state of Britain, France and the Soviet Union in Geneva, Switzerland, in July.

He flew here from Washington Sunday and had a short talk with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles before going to bed at the St. Francis Hotel.

The President at first declined an invitation to attend the anniversary session of the United Nations. He was believed to have changed his mind at the urging of U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Labor Boss is Sentenced After
Plea of Guilty

Tax Deficiencies
And Penalties
Total $176,000

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Evan R. Dale, 39, Southern Illinois Common Laborers boss already sentenced to 15 years for labor racketeering, today pleaded guilty to income tax evasion and was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

U. S. Dist. Atty. John B. Stoddard Jr. said the six counts to which Dale pleaded guilty total nearly $200,000 in taxes evaded and penalties involved. Stoddard said it was one of the court's biggest tax evasion cases on record.

Federal Judge Charles G. Briggie sentenced Dale to five years in prison and fined him $5,000 on the first five counts. These counts covered failure to pay income taxes of about $106,000 for the years 1948 through 1952. Penalties make the deficiency total $176,000.

Briggie also sentenced Dale to five years on the sixth count, with the sentences to be served "consecutively" or for a total of 10 years. The sentences began immediately.

However, Stoddard said he understood the 10 years would run "concurrently" or at the same time as the 15 years sentence meted out to Dale last December in the East St. Louis Federal Court for racketeering.

Paid By Contractors

Dale, who resided in Carbondale and had offices at Cairo, controlled 38,000 members of the AFL, Hodcarriers and Common Laborers Union in 32 southern Illinois and Kentucky counties as union district manager.

All the money involved in the income tax evasions was paid by contractors "to insure labor peace," Stoddard said.

"These payments in the unreported income were made by contractors to assure labor peace. In many instances the contractors paid because they understood there was a custom in the defendant's territory that 1 per cent of the contract be paid for the price of peace," Stoddard told the judge.

Stoddard said Dale joined the Common Laborers Union in 1933, was an organizer and then business agent for the union before becoming district manager.

He said part of the racketeering activities by Dale consisted of "allegedly" trying to make Ebasco Contractors, initial main builders of the Joppla, Ill., power plant for the Paducah, Ky., atomic plant, pay one million dollars for labor peace. Stoddard said this was the 1 per cent fine since Ebasco had 100 million dollars contract.

Held in St. Louis Prison

Dale appealed the East St. Louis labor racketeering conviction and has been held in the federal section of the St. Louis, Mo., prison pending disposition of the appeal. He was denied bond in May.

Defense Atty. John Hoban of East St. Louis said Dale split the money from contractors with others. But he said if Dale tried to get others to admit they received the money "they would flatly deny it in court."

"This man got the most severe sentence ever handed down for labor racketeering in the United States," Hoban said. "He has been the object of a constant and unceasing attack by the newspapers that have blackened his character and everything about him."

Hoban asked that the penalty be such that Dale would "not face a life in prison" and that he would "have some hope."

After hearing his sentence the man who once boasted he had 38,000 laborers "in the palm of my hand" sat on a chair against the rear court railing, with tears gathering at the corner of his eyes.

Dale is still untied on six indictments in the eastern Illinois Federal District Court, five indictments charging labor racketeering and the sixth income tax evasion. The racketeering charges involve 15 contractors who allegedly paid Dale $74,000.

Small-town newspapermen from the heart of America were personally invited by the secretary of state to come to San Francisco. Church people, racial groups, labor groups, women's club presidents, all got personal invitations from Ed to come to the delivery room in San Francisco and see the peace of the world born.

Possibly Stettinius carried it too far, but basically Ed was right. The peace of the world and the new machinery for keeping the peace of the world had to be founded on people, their hopes, their fears, their dread of war.

Hope was high at that time—bright, fresh, unquenchable hope. It rippled through the delegates like collegiate urge at a football game. It spilled over into the bleachers of the conference hangars-on. It permeated everything that happened at San Francisco.

It knocked on the head the unpleasant warning of Ambassador Averell Harriman fresh from Moscow that Russia was up to no good in the future.

It poured large bucketfuls of cold water over my report that Stalin had written a savage note to Roosevelt shortly before FDR's death and that Eisenhower had withdrawn United States troops out of the suburbs of Berlin, back to the river Elbe because of Russian protests.

Finally it even made slightly glamorous the crusty unglamorous person of Molotov.

It was indeed a hopeful, rosy world.

KILLING THE UN???

But permanent peace has got to be born of hope. It can't function otherwise. And when you look back over the past 10 years, there still remains hope, there still remains determination for peace and there still remains a United Nations.

A lot of people have tried to wreck the United Nations since those rosy, hopeful, collegiate days 10 years ago. The Minute Women have poured cold water on it. The Liberty Bells have linked it to radicalism. The mayor of Santa Monica refused to have the UN flag flown from the schools on United Nations Day. The creation of NATO as a separate organization in Paris circumvented the United Nations didn't do it any good. The mess over Indo-China in which the French and the UN sidestepped the UN, plus our recent refusal to refer Formosa to the United Nations—all have hurt. And most potent of all, the men in the Kremlin have tried to undercut, belittle and sabotage the United Nations.

Nevertheless, and despite all this, the United Nations today is still functioning.

For it's too important, too basic to be killed. People have been discouraged about it. It has suffered setbacks. But it still represents the world's best hope for peace.

And though people have forgotten, it also has accomplished some great victories, plus some victories few people even knew about.

People have forgotten, for instance, how the UN stopped Russia dead in its tracks when the Red Army in 1945 was about to move into Iran. Iran was considered by Moscow—a Soviet sphere of influence—territory on which the Soviet had a lien. No opposition was dreamed possible to Red occupation—except from the people most concerned, Iran.

Then the United Nations moved in. It had behind it only the force of public opinion, the force of moral warnings sounded from the UN rostrum. But the warnings rang round the world. And with an angry snarl the Russian bear moved out.

There have been other UN victories people have forgotten—the prevention of war between India and Pakistan, conciliation of the Arab-Israeli disputes, establishment of radio information stations all over the world to give the true facts about peace; and the constructive unpublicized job the UN has been doing in backward countries to improve health, agriculture, living standards.

Finally there is Korea, which some people will call a dark spot on the UN escutcheon. History, however, may prove otherwise. History may show that despite its fumbles and failings, the united effort to stop an aggressor in Korea was the most important milestone in this civilization's sometimes uncertain, never-ending groping for peace.

No, the United Nations is a long way from wrecked. It still has the people behind it. Two million of them have come to see its building in New York. It still has behind it the determined drive of the little nations and their leaders—the Spaaks, the Evatts, the Castros, the Zuletas, the Lies, the Hammarskjolds—the people who have nothing to gain and the most to lose by war.

But most of all it has behind it what it had 10 years ago when founded in San Francisco—hope.

SAN FRANCISCO-GO-ROUND

Reason Harry Truman declined the first invitation to go to the UN conference in San Francisco was quite simple. He got a brusque note from Secretary Dulles saying that a seat would be available for him on the platform if he wanted to come. It was scarcely an invitation; more in keeping with the current policy of ignoring the ex-President. Truman has not yet been invited to the White House since he left two and a half years ago.

Later Dag Hammarskjold heard of the offhanded invite and asked Truman to be a featured speaker at the UN which he helped to found... Just before he boarded a train for San Francisco, Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov sent word to Secretary Dulles that he wants to discuss the Far East during this week's foreign ministers meeting. It's likely, however, that the western Big 3 foreign ministers will refuse to talk about any Asiatic problem at San Francisco. They are likely to insist that the meeting be limited to making specific arrangements for the summit meeting in Geneva next month—where all talk of the Far East is to be forbidden.

Southern Illinois Historical Group to Meet at Fairfield

For success in financing a new $70,000 library, the Wayne County Historical society will be honored when the Southern Illinois Historical society meets at 6:30 p. m. Friday, June 24, in the First Methodist church at Fairfield.

Dr. George H. Hand, vice-president of Southern Illinois university, is the featured speaker. He will recount the proud heritage and rich resources of this area and point out the way in which historical societies, county and area wide, can build on these firm foundations for greater achievements for the future.

There will be an air of historical music by Madrigal Singers of Fairfield high school in medieval costume and a barber shop quartette, dressed in the style of the Gay Nineties. Among other museum costumes to be on display will be authentic high laced riding breeches worn by George Washington. Guests are invited to bring historical objects and papers for exhibit.

There will be short reports on activities in other counties including interest in history being promoted by Southern Illinois Incorporated, Greater Egypt Association and various tours into the Illinois Ozarks. Some of the newest histories concerning southern Illinois will be on display. A brief business meeting will be limited to election of new officers and the first citation of the Southern Illinois Historical of the year. Program will end 9 p. m.

The dinner will be served by the ladies of the First Methodist church. Reservations may be sent to Wasson W. Lawrence, president of the Wayne County Historical Society, Fairfield.

A bus is being chartered to leave Harrisburg at 5 p. m. Others are planning to extend the Fairfield visit overnight. Reports from other counties indicate that this will be a grand event for those interested in promoting the fair history of southern Illinois.

Hoover Group Urges New Gov't Bookkeeping

WASHINGTON (AP)—A better bookkeeping system might save the federal government 4 billion dollars a year, the Hoover Commission said today.

The commission said Congress has lost much of its control over the national purse and should get it back.

It said Congress has lost this control because of budgetary practices which permit agencies to obtain vast lump sum appropriations for long-range projects and then carry unspent portions over from year to year with little congressional scrutiny until payments are completed.

The commission proposed that this system be scrapped in favor of an "annual accrued expenditure budget" with an accounting system which would "show currently, completely, and clearly all resources and liabilities, and the cost of operations."

THE STORY: Suffering from a bullet wound, Jack Bristow seeks refuge in the apartment of Lucy Hamilton, secretary and girl friend of Private Detective Michael Shayne. When he learns Shayne is expected, Bristow threatens the girl.

The rangy redhead was in a pleasantly relaxed mood when he appeared at the top of the stairs in front of Lucy's door. He sailed his wide-brimmed Panama over her head into the center of the rug and grinned down at her, putting one big hand at each armpit and lifting her from the floor to kiss her lips lightly.

She was flushed and confused when he set her down, trying to distinguish in her own mind between the sudden rush of passion that had drawn her briefly toward Jack Bristow a short time previously and the very real affection she felt for Shayne.

Misinterpreting her blushing confusion, Shayne slid one arm over her shoulders and turned her back into the apartment. "A person would think that was the first time I ever kissed you, Angel. You ought to be used to it by now."

"That's just it, Michael. You've been doing it for years now and I'm beginning to wonder if it means anything to you at all."

She hadn't known she was going to say that. She could have bitten off her tongue after hearing the words if that would have recalled them. Long ago, when she first entered the relationship of secretary and favorite female friend of Michael Shayne, she had sworn to herself that she would accept from him only what he freely offered of himself and would never seek anything more. She gazed up at him in stricken silence as he stopped abruptly and his arm tightened about her shoulders.

"I don't believe you really wonder, do you, Lucy?" Michael Shayne's voice was curiously gentle. "I think you know just about how I feel."

She smiled wretchedly and nodded her brown head, ceding away from his encircling arm and avoiding his questioning eyes. "Skip it, Michael." She made her voice light with an effort. "That just slipped out. I guess I've been sitting here alone too long wondering whether you were coming tonight or not. Do you want a drink tonight, Mr. Shayne?"

He nodded. "As usual. Plenty of ice water on the side." He spoke abstractedly, continuing to study her with speculative eyes while his left hand went up mechanically to roll the lobe of his ear between thumb and forefinger.

Lucy knew that look and that gesture by heart. Just as she knew every one of Michael Shayne's looks and gestures. He was troubled and thinking deeply, sorting things out in his mind with that damnable logic of his which sometimes frightened her and often infuriated her.

Lucy sighed and turned to the kitchen. Somehow, the opportunity to tell Shayne about Jack Bristow in the bedroom had vanished. Why had she made that crack about sitting there alone wondering if he were coming? And why had she, tonight of all nights, done something to force the issue between them?

Shayne was sprawled back at one end of the divan with long legs stretched out in front of him. His red hair was rumpled and his tie slightly askew, the gauntness of his features softened and lessened somewhat by the indirect light from a floor lamp and the comfortable feeling he always had when alone with Lucy.

He watched her without speaking and without moving while she leaned forward to set the tray on a low coffee table close to him and then seated herself on the other side of it.

He lifted the cognac glass with knobby fingers and sipped meditatively for a moment, then said: "Give me a little more time, Lucy. I know I don't deserve it, but I do need it."

She crossed her nice legs and smoothed the shimmering blue hostess gown and replied, "Of course, Michael."

There was the tramp of heavy footsteps in the hall outside, and a loud knock on her door. Shayne lifted busy red brows questioningly at her, and Lucy shrugged her shoulders to indicate she expected no visitors and had no idea who was there.

She got to her feet as a second knock followed the first swiftly, went to the door and opened it a foot to confront a red-faced and uniformed city policeman.

There were others beyond him, she noted, arousing the occupants of the other apartments, and knew instantly why they were there. Panic caused a tight knot in her throat, but she managed to get her words out past the knot calmly: "Yes? What is it, Officer?"

"Sorry to bother you, Ma'm. Is anyone in your apartment with you?"

"We're looking for a man," the cop explained impatiently. "Traced him into this apartment house in the last hour and we've got to ask your permission to search your place for him."

"Do you suspect me of harboring a fugitive?" she asked hotly. "No need to get nasty about it. Maybe you are at that." The blue-coated policeman pushed forward with a leer. "If I was on the lam I'd not want a nicer place to hide."

IT'S OUTING TIME—And the Agriculture Department's Forest Service this year is expecting a record crop of guests in its 151 national forests. More than 40 million persons used the forests as recreation areas in 1954, more than double the prewar high set in 1941. Sketch shows a breakdown of 1954 forest visits by purpose. Separate figures for canoeing, scientific study and wilderness travel are not available. The parks, which cover more than 180 million acres in Alaska and the United States, are free, except for specially equipped areas. Guests are asked only to leave places as they would like to find them—trash taken care of and equipment in good condition.

Giants, Indians, Winners of Last Year's Pennants, are Poor Bets for Championship

By United Press
The Giants and Indians formed a perfect pennant parlay in 1954 but it looks like you can tear up your tickets today if you bet on either of 'em for 1955.
Everybody has been going wrong for both the world champion Giants and the American League champion Indians lately.
Take, for example, the Giants who dropped to fourth place in the National League when they lost to the Braves, 8-7, Sunday. Capt. Alvin Dark committed two errors, the second of which let in the deciding run in the eighth; Willie Mays was benched for the first time in his life, and starter Ruben Gomez, a 17-game winner last year, was hammered out after a five-run first inning.
The Indians didn't look any better as the Red Sox blasted out 16 hits, including a pair of homers by Ted Williams, for an 11-7 victory that dropped Cleveland four full games behind the Yankees, who regained the American League lead by beating the White Sox twice, 7-1 and 5-2.
Cleveland's loss to Boston Sunday was the seventh in 12 games so far this season as contrasted to the Indians' 1954 showing when they beat the Red Sox 20 out of 22. And whereas the Giants were just beginning to launch their winning spurt a year ago today, they seem to be heading in the other direction now with four straight losses.
Yankee Beat Chicago Twice
The Yankees, who relinquished first place to the White Sox for 24 hours, grabbed it back quickly as veteran Ed Lopat hurled a seven-hitter in the opener and benefitted from homers by Elston Howard and Bill Skowron. After the White Sox tied the score at 2-2 in the seventh inning of the opener, the Yanks stormed back in the bottom half of the inning for three runs on Gil McDougald's fourth homer, a triple by Hank Bauer and Mickey Mantle's 16th homer. Jim Konstanty relieved Johnny Kucks in the seventh and gained his fourth victory.
Rain cut heavily into the American League schedule, washing out scheduled doubleheaders between the Athletics and Senators and the Tigers and Orioles.
Brooklyn increased its National League lead to 11 full games with a 7-4 victory over St. Louis while the second-place Cubs bowed, 1-0, in a 15-inning opener against the Phillies, then took an 8-7 nightcap which was called in the seventh because of darkness. Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati, 5-2, in the first of CROWNED—A tippy crown of blazing glory seems to be topping Harry Walker's appointment as manager of the St. Louis club. Actually it's one section of the Busch Stadium lighting system. It's up to Dixie's younger brother to light up the Cardinals.

'Rose Bowl' Dance Held by Members, Guests Of Egyptian Golf Ass'n

Over 100 members and guests of the Egyptian Golf association attended the "Rose Bowl" dance at the country club Saturday night, and many of them pronounced it the most outstanding social event in the club's history.
Candlelight and a beautifully decorated punch bowl and buffet provided the atmosphere for the evening, with dancing to the music of John Richard Small and his trio. A whole roast pig, complete with an apple in its mouth, adorned the sideboard, and provided a part of the sumptuous refreshments served during the evening.
Credit for the entire affair goes to the dance committee: Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kimberlin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kurto, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Partain, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Argus, whose collective efforts produced an event that will be long remembered by club members.
Add a few drops of vinegar to rinse water when washing plastic curtains. The vinegar acts as an anti-static solution and cuts down on the attraction of dust. Plastic upholstery can be wiped with a damp cloth wrung from a water and vinegar solution.

Fleck Wins U. S. Open; Hogan Retires from Competitive Golf

SAN FRANCISCO—The king is dead. Long live the king.
A new champion, soft-spoken Jack Fleck, took over as the U. S. National Open titleholder today as Bantam Ben Hogan, beaten in a thrilling 18-hole playoff Sunday, announced his retirement from competitive golf.
The unheralded Fleck, a 100-1 shot in nearly any field of topnotchers, whipped the supposedly invincible Hogan in an 18-hole medal-play, playoff, with a one-under-par 69 too low for Hogan.
"I thank God for giving me strength to play like this," said the humble Fleck at the presentation ceremonies, where he picked up his first-place check for $6000.
But it was Hogan who stunned the crowd of 10,000 in silence as he announced his permanent retirement.
"I'm through with competitive golf," he said as a hush fell over the crowd. "I came here with the idea of winning, whether I won or lost was incidental. I only wanted to make a good showing."
"I want to play just for the pleasure of it because I want to be around the fellows and around golf. Golf is my life."
And as Hogan bowed out from one of the most illustrious careers in the annals of golf, Fleck, a 32-year-old professional who has been around the professional circuit off-and-on for years, took over.
Fleck never had won a major tournament in his life. In fact he is the first to admit that he never has come close.
But he played the finest golf of his career here. He shot rounds of 76, 69, 75, 67 to tie with Hogan the four time Open king, for the championship. Then in the play-off in direct competition, he outsteaded the stolid Hogan while a gallery of 10,000 rooted for him on his every move. It wasn't that they were against Hogan, but rather that they were, like most American crowds, for the underdog.
Hogan in the business of manufacturing golf clubs, couldn't be too unhappy about the outcome.
"Ben gave me this set of Hogan clubs several weeks ago in Texas," said Fleck after he finished his second round.
So it was the Hogan club insignia that went to the champion.
Picture of Perfection
In their play-off match, Fleck, who couldn't break 80 in 10 practice rounds, was a picture of perfection.
He had two bogies, but he came through with three birdies to more than offset them.
However, it was a red-hot putter that brought him the championship. He had seven one-putt greens and used only 29 putts for the 18 holes.
That was why Hogan, in a gag shot for photographers after the match, took off his cap and fanned Jack's putter.
The victory was worth $6000 in cash—right now. But it may be worth anywhere from $50,000 to $100,000 additionally in endorsement and personal appearance fees during the next year.
Fleck succeeds another nonentity in the golfing world as champion. Ed Furgol, the lame-armed 1954 champion, who stepped down early in the competition this time.
Jack is flying home today to see his wife, son and father—and to take a look at the two public links courses that he presides over in Davenport, Iowa.
Then he expects to take a two-weeks vacation before rejoining the tournament trail.

Cincinnati Man Wins Feature Sports Car Race at Lawrenceville
LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill.—Howard Hively, Cincinnati, won the featured weekend race sponsored by the Sports Car Club of America's southern Illinois chapter.
Hively, driving a Ferrari, won the 99-mile race for larger production and modified models.
Joan Ellis, Indianapolis, driving a Jaguar, won a 13.3 mile race for women.
Winners in other events included Robert Kuhn, Fairborn, Ohio, winner of 32.4 mile race for smaller cars; Dale Duncan, Tulsa, Okla., winner of a 39.6 mile event for larger cars, and Walter Ernst, Dayton, Ohio, who won a 54-mile race for small cars.

Racing Program Halted as Leading Cars Turn Over

An exciting stock car racing program at the Saline County Speedway Saturday night was brought to a sudden halt when the two leading cars in the 20-lap feature turned over. The track was blocked and the race stopped. Officials decided to call the race at that point, awarding places as the cars were running at the time of the accident.
Charley Taitt of Carbondale was leading by a length over Jack Piquard, also of Carbondale, at the time of the wreck after 12 laps. Royd Barnes, Harrisburg, was third.
Taitt was taken by ambulance to a local hospital for a check up, but was released and it is reported he raced Sunday night at Murphysboro.

Orioles Sign Three Young Bonus Players

BALTIMORE—Paul Richards, who says the Baltimore Orioles are ready to out-bid all other clubs in the bonus market, signed three youngsters at a clip today and described one of them as "the greatest thing since the invention of the round wheel."
Object of Richards' praise was first baseman-pitcher Robert Sydney Nelson, 18-year-old batting and hurling "phenom" from Dallas.
"Of all the bonus players we signed this season, Nelson is the one we wanted most," Richards said. "Every club in the majors was interested in him but we made up our minds to get him and we did."
Nelson, signed for a "modest bonus" estimated around $20,000, immediately was placed on the Baltimore roster along with 22-year-old catcher Tommy Gastall, former Boston University baseball and football star, who was given an estimated $15,000 bonus by the Orioles.
The third youngster signed was William Lajoie, a 20-year-old center-fielder from Western Michigan college, who received less than $4,000 and was assigned to the Orioles' San Antonio farm club in the Texas league.

Congress Has Lot of Work To Do to Justify Pay Raise

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—As of May 1, President Eisenhower had made 145 requests for new legislation to the 84th Congress. Action has been completed on just 20 of these requests. The list includes 12 general legislative proposals and the ratification of eight international agreements by the Senate.

The list does not include appropriation bills to finance government operations during the fiscal year beginning next July 1. And it does not include legislative departments of government.

But only 12 such measures have thus far been cleared by the Congress and signed into law by the President. In one, Congress raised its own pay, but for what?

With four months of this session of Congress down and only three months to go—if the desire to adjourn by Aug. 1 is carried out—it can be seen that an awful lot of steam will have to be put on if President Eisenhower's program is to get any place this year.

THE LETHARGY IS A LITTLE difficult to account for.

It can be explained in part by the fact the Democratic-controlled Congress isn't any too anxious to help a Republican president make a good record. On the other hand, some of the President's strongest support on the trade agreements renewal and international affairs have come from the Democratic side of the aisles.

Sen. Walter George (D-Ga.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has been a tower of strength to the administration. He has pushed through ratification of mutual defense treaty with China, the Southeast Asia treaty, German rearmament agreement, foreign service reorganization and several minor agreements with foreign countries. The grant of authority to the President to determine what action should be taken to defend Formosa was passed in jig time.

Military pay incentives were passed in part. The new military reserves plan has passed the House with major changes.

POSTAL PAY RAISES HAVE BEEN approved. Three-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements program has passed the House.

Nearly all the other proposals are hung up in committee. Signs of revolt and slowdown against the President's program are many. This is in spite of Mr. Eisenhower's assurances to his press conference that it's too early to tell what the congressional record will be.

The House Agriculture Committee has approved a return to high, rigid price supports. The Senate has appropriated 11 million dollars more for Department of Agriculture than the President requested. This is seven million dollars more than the House approved.

There is serious questioning in both Houses of Congress on the administration's cutback of military manpower and its defense policies in general.

DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION TO THE Dixon-Yates electric power supply contract for the Tennessee Valley seems to have slowed down all administration public power proposals. Only the Upper Colorado River development has passed the Senate.

There seems to be little congressional enthusiasm for the President's health reinsurance, education, highway, housing and postal rate increase proposals.

The Trade Agreements Act expires June 12. The 281 billion-dollar debt limit returns to 275 billion unless extended by June 30. Foreign Aid and Small Business Administration are scheduled to go out of business by June 30. There's an awful lot of work to be done around here in the next 90 days if Congress is to justify that $7500 a year pay raise.

Three Children Are Killed by Flooding Rains

By United Press

Flooding rains and ripping winds killed three children, ruined millions of dollars' worth of crops, and then punched their way eastward today.

The thunderstorms fell upon 15,000 square miles of country in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains Sunday night and kept going. They spread eastward and southward through Texas, hitting Fort Worth and Waco in their later stages.

The worst havoc was farther west. More than 50,000 acres of crops were destroyed, flooded-out families sought Red Cross aid near Amarillo, four major highways were under water, and rail traffic from Fort Worth to Denver, Colo., was running up to three hours late.

Death swept into a storm center at Elba, Tex., where Ira Kenney, his wife, and four children had taken refuge during a deluge of five inches' rain in just one hour.

Kenney noticed water seeping under the storm cellar door and opened it to have a look. A wall of water swept in, drowning his small son and two daughters. Kenney was barely able to rescue his wife and another little girl.
